

Put a little spring in your step!

It's officially springtime, folks! With the beautiful colors and lovely aromas of spring flowers comes the ever-sporadic and unpredictable Oregon weather. You know what they say: "If you don't like the weather in Oregon, wait five minutes!" It couldn't be more true these days, with dark and dreary downpours giving way to glorious sunshine minute by minute. Our new students are getting settled into their routines, and everyone knows better than to leave their umbrellas at home these days. In the meantime, our lost and found stash of umbrellas seems to multiply by the day. The front desk will soon start renting them out for $5 apiece, per hour (Kidding! But not a bad idea, right?).

Recently students have enjoyed posting comments about trips, parties, videos and photos. Everyday we post an "Idiom of the Day" for students to learn, as well as the occasional opinion poll, advertisement for trips and general comments that result in all kinds of student opinions and feedback. As they've become more familiar with the page, it's grown into a fun and chatty discussion forum. We currently have 336 fans. If you're not already a fan, add our page today!

Also, we are contantly adding new photos to our Flickr page. Some of our new photo sets include Spring intake and the Info Fair. Visit our Flickr photostream here:

Summary of Activities
 Spring Term 2010

It's an exciting term for our students! They've already enjoyed activities such as the downtown tour (pictured above), the coast trip, the beginning of term party and the Wii party. A number of upcoming trips and parties will certainly keep them entertained for the remainder of the term, including the Seattle trip, the Portland Timbers soccer game trip, a shop 'till you drop trip (always popular), and some fun parties and game nights. With our new credit card machine at the front desk of Heckart, it's easier than ever for students to pay for these trips.

'Tis the season for cultural nights! With Japan night, Africa night, the Native American Pow-Wow, Native American Salmon Bake and the Hawaiian Luau coming up (and Korean night and Latino night just recently passed), there will be no shortage of cultural activities for our students this term. These events have limited ticket availability, so if you are interested in attending you had better get to Snell Hall fast!

Going Coastal!

A summary of the Oregon Coast Trip

By Robert Hinderliter

We had a wonderful time on the Coast Trip last Saturday, April 3rd. We left Corvallis at 9:30am arrived at 11:00 in Newport in a blustery downpour. Most of the students had umbrellas, but those who didn't were able to share with a friend. We walked along the Historic Bayfront and checked out the souvenir stores and candy shops. I took a group of Bunkyo students out on a dock to watch the sea lions. The students were very excited to see the huge beasts huddled together on the wooden planks below the docks, barking and breathing steam into the wet air. I asked them if they had ever seen sea lions before, and they told me they had only seen them in zoos.

After watching the sea lions, we were hungry for lunch. The Bunkyo students wanted to have authentic seafood, and Newport has many great restaurants. We divided up, and I went with a group of around twelve students to Mo's Restaurant. We ordered many different dishes, including clam chowder, seafood linguini, calamari, codfish, oysters, scallops, and prawns. We were very full when we came back to the bus.

Our next stop was the Yaquina Bay Lighthouse. Students took a tour of the lighthouse and bought souvenirs from the gift shop. With the ocean as a backdrop, we took group pictures. A few brave students ventured down through the flooded shoreline to get a better view of the sea.

After exploring the Yaquina Bay area, we boarded the bus again and traveled north along the coast, watching the huge waves crashing against the rocks.

Our destination was the Tanger Outlet

Stores in Lincoln City. The students clearly love shopping, as they came back to the bus with bags and bags of clothing and shoes.

After a long day of adventure and fun, the bus ride back to Corvallis was a quiet one. The bus was full of sleeping students. We arrived back in Corvallis just before 7:00pm. Everyone was weary but happy as they climbed off the bus and headed back to their rooms.

The group of students were fascinating and extremely friendly. I had a great time getting to know them and showing them around the coast!
